What People Are Saying

“I thought I was an early pioneer in texting. By reading RBTL, I learned more in thirty minutes than I had in five years of finger typing. More importantly, I learned how to look cool to my children. The new world is here NOW, and you better get hip or get deleted.”

Peter H. Jackson
Silicon Valley CEO & Director

“Texting is a creative, expressive, and practical outlet for a surprising range of uses. In short, texting deserves much better press than it usually gets! It’s great to see a book like Read Between the Lines address texting in such an enter-taining and informative way.”

Dr. Caroline Tagg, PhD
First person to receive a PhD in texting,
Birmingham University, U. K.

“We believe that public safety must be prepared for and utilize technology. Cell phones and text messaging have become a MAINSTAY in our society; thus public safety must adapt to this new avenue of communication.”

Thomas Semings
Chief of Police, Waterloo, Iowa
First U. S. county to implement 911 texting services

“I like the FLEXIBILITY texting offers. I can ask a question as I go along in a class and get students to respond quickly and en masse. All I need is the number they text to; I don’t need pre-prepared Power Point slides with the question and a choice of answers.”

Dr. Kevin Linch, PhD
Pioneer of lecture texting within a university setting, Teaching Fellow
School of History, University of Leeds
